

Billing Practices Check for Medium to Large Law Firms 2013

Welcome

At the Legal Services Commission we consistently receive and address more complaints about legal costs than any other single issue. We have developed this Ethics Check to help practitioners reflect on their billing systems and practices and potentially avoid this most common of complaints.

The questions are designed to help practitioners review aspects of their 'ethical infrastructure' - the formal and informal policies and procedures, customs and practices that nurture and sustain workplace cultures that encourage and reward ethical behaviour and discourage, deter, detect and deal with ethically questionable behaviour.

This survey is designed for medium to large law practices with 7 or more practising certificate holders. It is for lawyers and paralegal staff who deal with clients and who are involved in billing. It takes less than 30 minutes to complete.

ANONYMITY AND CONFIDENTIALITY

Our Ethics Checks are purposefully designed to preserve the anonymity of the individuals who complete the survey by not seeking any information that could identify individuals or their practices.

The survey complies fully with the relevant national ethical standards. We do not collect IP addresses and we only publish the results in aggregate, so that the results for all the people participating in the survey are shown. Where there are enough numbers, firms can choose to ask their staff to use a code and we can display all results under that code. It enables participants to compare how their firm answered the questions with how practitioners in other firms responded.

The reports overall and by code will be available on our website at <http://www.lsc.qld.gov.au/ethics-checks>.

We also thank Giles Watson of the Queensland Law Society for allowing us to draw on some of the questions in his presentation to the QLS Core CPD Workshop for Early Career Lawyers. We thank Professor Susan Saab Fortney of Texas Tech University School of Law, Dr Christine Parker of Melbourne University Law School and April Chrzanowski of Griffith University for their helpful comments and suggestions about the version circulated in the last round. We also want to thank Professor Fortney for giving us permission to include a number of the survey questions she asked in the research project she reported in Soul for Sale: An Empirical Study of Associate Satisfaction, Law Firm Culture and the Effects of Billable Hour Requirements, UMKC Law Review, Volume 68, 2000-2001.

The survey is being conducted using SurveyMonkey's server which is based in the United States of America. Information you provide on this survey will be transferred to SurveyMonkey's server in the United States of America. By completing this survey, you agree to this transfer.

Instructions for completing the survey

COMPLETING THE SURVEY AS AN INDIVIDUAL OR AS A FIRM

You can complete this survey simply as an individual and you will get value from thinking about the questions that come up. Experience tells us however that the survey comes into its own when your firm participates as a whole – if all or most of the people at your firm complete the survey – because it often prompts useful conversation about the differences in opinion that can come up in answers to the survey questions when results are published under the codes chosen by firms.

Completing the survey as a firm requires everybody at the firm to use a code devised by the firm. The code allows us to publish the results for the firm as a whole whilst preserving the firm's anonymity. We will publish both your firm's results and the aggregate, overall results for everybody who has completed the survey on our website shortly after the closing date.

We will not, however, publish any reports that tend because of a small sample size to identify any of the individual people who completed the survey or their law firm.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR EVERYBODY COMPLETING THE SURVEY

You can start the survey and return to complete it at any time. To navigate through the survey, use the "next" button at the foot of the page to progress to the next page, or the "previous" button to go back and review your answers if you wish.

You will be able to answer most of the questions simply by clicking the appropriate box, although some of the questions give you the opportunity if you wish to add a comment. If you need to leave the survey at any time simply click 'exit this survey' in the top right hand corner of the page and your answers will be saved until you return.

Please answer every question that applies to you and as many questions as you can. Bear in mind that the survey is not an exam or test and that there are no right or wrong answers as such. Survey questions and answer options are general in nature. If the answer options do not exactly match the response you'd like to give, please select the response that most closely matches or write your preferred response if a comment box is provided.

PLEASE CLICK "DONE" WHEN YOU'VE COMPLETED THE SURVEY.

Thank you for your participation.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR SURVEY MANAGERS AT PARTICIPATING FIRMS

If you wish to participate as a firm, you should appoint a survey manager to oversee the process and to encourage all your staff to participate. The survey manager role is not difficult or time consuming but experience tells us that it contributes to the success of the exercise and that it is best to appoint someone who has some management authority within the firm.

We urge survey managers to familiarise themselves with the following crucial but straightforward instructions:

§ Please decide on a 6 letter code word for your firm to enable us to publish your firm specific results without identifying your firm by name.

§ The code can be random letters or a whole word. The most important thing is for everyone in the firm to use exactly the same code. We recommend that you circulate the code to everyone at the firm who is participating in the survey. There is a reminder about this in Question 2 which asks them to enter a code.

§ Please also circulate the answers to questions 3 and 6 which ask about your firm's business structure and the number of people at your firm who hold practising certificates.

§ You may want to consider convening a staff meeting or other in-house forum to discuss your firm's results. There are often very interesting comparisons to make about how different people within your firm answered the same questions. The results can be very useful in helping you identify any inconsistencies and gaps in how your firm deals with the issues involved in those questions.

Status

This survey is available for anyone to complete, whether as a member of a "participating law firm", using a code devised by the firm, or as an "interested individual", who does not need to use a survey code.

A participating law firm is a firm that has decided to undertake the survey and provided staff with a six (6) letter "survey code".

An "interested individual" is a person doing the survey on their own initiative, or if their firm has too few staff responding to justify using a survey code.
